The dreamers of dreams

Borrowing a memorable phrase from Elgar's The Music Makers as its title, The dreamers of dreams creates an inspiring sequence of some of the most celebrated English late 19th/early 20th-century choral works by Parry, Vaughan Williams and Elgar. Taking Parry's uplifting setting of Milton's Blest Pair of Sirens (1887) as its starting point - one of the most influential works of the English musical renaissance - the programme traces the strong English choral revival that followed. Vaughan Williams' early, visionary setting of Walt Whitman in Toward the Unknown Region (1906), and Flos Campi (1925), the composer's distinctive work for solo viola, small orchestra and wordless chorus based on The Song of Solomon, lead to Elgar's The Music Makers (1912) - an outstanding and very personal work, in which the composer includes quotations from Sea Pictures, The Dream of Gerontius, the Enigma Variations and both symphonies. In addition to these works, we also include two short pieces outside this period - Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace (1853) by Samuel Sebastian Wesley, whose style fed directly into Parry's and whose bicentenary of birth is marked this year, and a recent, related work by Judith Bingham, who was until the end of 2009 the BBC Singers' Associate Composer; The darkness is no darkness (1993) is a contemporary reflection upon Wesley's famous anthem and is designed to segue into a performance of the original.

Somerset Chamber Choir has established a fine reputation for first-class music-making over more than twenty-five years, consistently promoting wide-ranging and imaginatively programmed concerts in partnership with many of the UK's finest singers and instrumentalists and their conductor, Graham Caldbeck, who also directs Nonsuch Singers ('one of London's best chamber choirs' The Times). Performing alongside the choir will be the outstanding mezzo-soprano, Sara Fulgoni, the distinguished violist of the Fitzwilliam String Quartet, Alan George, and the talented Wells Cathedral organ scholar, Oliver Walker. We are delighted to welcome back Southern Sinfonia, who played so magnificently in our Songs of War & Peace concert in 2008.

We do hope that you will join us to celebrate this wonderful music from 'England's green and pleasant land' in the magnificent setting of one of England's finest cathedrals. We can't think of a better way to spend a summer's evening!
